Intergenerational Experience Sharing

What were your thoughts while hearing about Maria's experience? What similarities or differences did you notice to your experience?

A good reminder that life is unpredictable and that good things are always around the corner.— ANONYMOUS

I liked the comment about life being a patchwork... that we don't need to have it all planned out :) the hope that good opportunities are just on the horizon — ANONYMOUS

It is very interesting to compare Maria's experiences to current day experiences and the opportunities now available for young people wanting to get involved. We just need to ensure young people understand how they can get involved and through what channels depending on their interests etc. — ANONYMOUS

Shows that life is unpredictable and you never know what opportunities will come to you in life — ANONYMOUS

Really loved to hear her experiences, take every opportunity, you don't where it will end or link in the future. I remember recycling drink cans in the early 1990's in my primary school. I remember being aware of the Amazon distruction around 1993 -1995. More recycling opportunities now. Now as an wildlife educator helping the next generations on biodiversity, agriculture and climate.

In this final episode of Series 2, the whole Rural Youth Europe Board are live in Dublin to play the latest game of Campfire Stories! We hear stories from Katie from Scotland, Anne from the Netherlands and Polona from Slovenia.

RURAL YOUTH EUROPE

What opportunities do you know about that you would like to share?

Not an opportunity but a wish. Let's build a wonderful network all over Europe to share experiences and knowledge!— ANONYMOUS

Have you ever had a look into European Solidarity Corps? You can do an "internship" anywhere in Europe with funds to cover your accommodation— ANONYMOUS
